ABSTRACT

The aim of this research is to find out how violence against children and women can happen to anyone and the perpetrators are not only people the child has just known, people the child has known for a long time can also be the perpetrators of violence against the child, even family or school friends and the child's playmates. can be the perpetrator. The research method used is an empirical juridical approach, namely a type of legal research focused on facts in the field found in this type of research, the Socio Criminological approach. All information is through direct observation and interviews with the research object. The research results showed that the increasing prevalence of acts of violence against children shows that children are often used as objects of violence because they are physically and mentally immature. Criminal acts of violence against children cause children to experience prolonged trauma and often make victims remain silent, therefore physically, mentally, sexually and the child's approach must receive special attention. The conclusion is that the problem of crime victims has not been an old thing for a long time, simply because violence has received less attention, perhaps it has been forgotten.

INTRODUCTION

Currently, criminals often occur in society. one of which is violent crimes against children. Like children in Jambi Province, especially in Batanghari Regency, they also often experience acts of violence, both within the family and in the social environment, in the school environment and among their peers. Acts of violence against children are cruel acts that continue to have a negative impact on children. Violence against children nowadays often occurs, whether it is physical, psychological or sexual violence. Law enforcers must be able to find appropriate solutions in handling criminal acts of violence against children in order to reduce violence that occurs against children. Violence against children and women needs special attention considering that the consequences of violence against children will cause children to experience prolonged trauma. Trauma can be dangerous for a child's mental development so that the child will not be able to grow and develop naturally. Efforts to protect children must begin as early as possible, so that in the future they can participate in the development of the nation and state.

Legal protection for women from violence has been regulated in various national legal instruments. The regulations governing violence against women can be seen in the general regulations (KUHP). In the general rules there are several articles that are directly related and can be qualified as acts of physical violence against women as regulated in statutory regulations.

Violence against children and women can happen to anyone and the perpetrators are not only people the child has just met, people the child has known for a long time can also be the perpetrators of violence against the child, even the child's family or school friends and playmates can be the perpetrators. The increasing prevalence of acts of violence against children shows that children are often used as objects of violence because they are physically and mentally immature. Criminal acts of violence against children cause children to experience prolonged trauma and often make victims remain silent, therefore physically, mentally, sexually and the child's approach must receive special attention. The problem of crime victims has not been an old thing for a long time, simply because violence has received less attention, perhaps it has been forgotten.

"In 2023, the PPA unit will handle 85 cases involving children and women, both in the form of violence in the form of abuse, rape and domestic violence." Others are still in the process of dealing with domestic violence, from the Ministry of Social Affairs which handles the problems of women, children and neglected people in Batanghari, saying that their party is providing assistance to underage victims and women who have become violent. They will provide assistance to underage victims accompanying victims of violence, both minors and women who are victims of acts of violence. So far, according to Criminal Investigation Unit, he has been coordinating with the Police PPA Unit and the Jambi Correctional Center (Bapas). "Some of it is handled by the Fathers, and some of it we handle with social services,"

He also said that the field of special handling related to children or the integrated service center for the protection of women and children (P2TP2A), which they handle specifically handles special cases of children and victims of domestic violence. Where the data collected is data collected from several agencies and fields including psychologists, the Ministry of Religion, the health service, PDK, and the community as well as the police. Meanwhile, 30 of these cases have already been brought to justice and some have also been successfully resolved through a press conference (by kinship) and some are still in the legal process and have already been decided.

In some of the cases that occurred, some were carried out by people closest to them. "Be it neighbors, siblings or even their own biological parents," he explained. According to him, when compared to the previous year's cases, this year there has actually been an increase. In 2023, the total number of violence cases handled by P2TP2A will reach 50 cases. Of which 20 are crimes committed. occurs in children.

"Indeed, there has been an increase in cases of violence against children, especially immoral cases," he explained. From the cases that occurred, he said, his party concluded that these cases were dominated by the influence of social media (social media). Especially hot sites, and the busyness of parents, the environment and "The influence of parents, especially (broken homes). Most of them, whether victims or perpetrators, are children who are free from parental supervision. There are even those who have family problems, plus the development of social media is not accompanied by assistance," throughout 2022 the Batanghari Regency P2KBPPA Service noted. , there were 25 cases of violence against women. 18 of them were cases against children. Based on P2KBPPA data, it is known that in one semester data from January-June 2023 there were 53 domestic violence.

Judging from the last few months, it has increased and is in the spotlight in Batanghari. Starting from cases of obscenity, sexual harassment, and acts of rape against minors. Some of them have even received decisions and some are in court proceedings. "Of the cases of violence against children and women recorded in the P2TP2A sector, some of them are domestic violence. In various cases," explained the Head of the Batanghari P2KBPPA Service.

Where the data collected is data collected from several agencies and fields including psychologists, the Ministry of Religion, the health service, PDK, and the community as well as the police. Meanwhile, some of these cases have already been brought to justice and some have also been successfully resolved through dipersi and there are also those that are still in legal proceedings and have already been decided. Domestic violence in the Batanghari Police area, as of January-June 2023, has decreased from the previous year.

The Department of Population Control, Family Planning, Women's Empowerment and Child Protection (DPPKBP3A) Batanghari Regency, noted that there were only three cases of frequent acts of violence. "The three cases that occurred in the first semester were sexual crimes, abuse and domestic violence," said the Head of the Women and Children Protection Division, Batanghari Regency PPKBP3A Service, Najmi Ulyati confirmed, 2023. Cases of violence include the number of acts of violence against women and children decreasing by 15 cases during the first semester of 2023. Nine domestic violence against children "one is domestic violence against women, then domestic violence against children and cases of violence against women," he said.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Children must be given protection to avoid violent crimes. Protection can be realized by the government, but it must also be realized by the police, as regulated in the regulations in the Domestic Violence Law, all activities to guarantee and protect and obtain protection from violent crimes. The main principle of child protection is the best interests of the child, non-discrimination, and the survival and development of the child can be guaranteed.

Domestic violence, both in cases of violence against children and other cases of violence related to women and children, to reduce this problem, based on the Regulations on Organization and Work Procedures, a unit was formed which was tasked with providing services and protection for women and children. The PPA Unit is a unit tasked with providing services in the form of protection for women and children who are victims of crime and law enforcement against women and children who are perpetrators of criminal acts. The Women and Children Protection Unit is located under the Batanghari Police Criminal Investigation Unit and has the task of providing services in the form of protection for women who are victims of crime/violence and law enforcement against the perpetrators. In carrying out the duties of the PPA Unit: 1) Providing legal assistance, 2) Administration and maintenance PPA Unit, 3) Collaborate with related agencies.

Based on field data, domestic violence that occurs in Batanghari shows an increase and decrease every year. Batanghari Police noted that during 2023, the PPA Unit at the Batanghari Police handled domestic violence cases, including involving children, 2023, domestic violence cases. "There has indeed been an increase in the number of cases handled by the Batanghari Police PPA Unit in 2023," said the Head of the Batanghari Police PPA Unit, , from this case which was handled by the Batanghari Police PPA Unit. All of them involve children and women. Meanwhile, in 2023 there will be several cases of domestic violence against children that will be reported and recorded at the Batanghari Police Criminal Investigation Unit. Batanghari to provide services in the form of strong protection to victims of violence against children, apart from that, the authorities must also continue to refer to the provisions contained in Law Number. 35 of 2014 concerning child protection. Based on data in the field, (UPPA) is one of the institutions responsible for upholding the law, of course its participation is required in supporting the realization of protection and overcoming criminal acts of violence against children, so that the PPA at the Batanghari Police is required to be able to help and provide solutions to domestic violence that occurs in Batanghari.

METHOD

This research is empirical legal research, namely a type of legal research that focuses on facts in the field. There is this type of research, namely the Socio Criminological approach. Judging from the aim of this research, the research carried out is descriptive analytical, namely explaining, describing or revealing the application in the field and the results obtained in this research will be analyzed using relevant theories and conclude. In this research, namely analytical descriptive legal research, activities are designed to make it easier and faster to carry out this research and the implementation of this research will be systematic, especially regarding the resolution of criminal acts of violence against women and children (KDRT) by the Batanghari Resort Police PPA Unit. For this reason, if we look at this research which uses a normative juridical approach, the design of the activities carried out in this research is to directly analyze the resolution of criminal acts of violence against women and children (KDRT) by the Batanghari Resort Police PPA Unit. In research, a research object or target is needed and there are boundaries or scope of the research so that the research carried out is more focused and not extensive. The scope or object of this research is the resolution of criminal acts of violence against women and children (KDRT) by the Batanghari Resort Police PPA Unit.

RESULT

The formation of the Women and Children Service Unit (PPA), began with services for women and children previously handled in the Special Examination Room (RPK) which was established in 1999, Based on). This change aims to ensure that cases relating to women and children can be handled more optimally and that the protection of the rights of women and children can be fulfilled. Cases of violence against children and women that occur in Batanghari Regency show an increase and decrease every year. The Women and Children Protection Unit (PPA) of the Batanghari Police noted that in 2023, the Batanghari Police PPA Unit handled several cases of violence against children and women. Some of these cases involve minors. 2022 to 2023. "There has indeed been an increase in the number of cases handled by the Batanghari Police PPA Unit," said the Head of the Batanghari PPA Unit, which is handled by the Batanghari Police PPA Unit. All of them involve children and women. Meanwhile, in 2021 cases of violence against children were recorded at the PPA Unit of the Batanghari Police Criminal Investigation Unit. The local government is obliged to provide protection for children. In order to guarantee the rights and sense of security for children, the government has established a Government Regulation stating that one of children's rights is: "The right to survival, growth, development and participation in a reasonable manner in accordance with human dignity and protection from violence and discrimination".

Of the cases of domestic violence (KDRT), there are many cases of violence against women and cases of violence against children. "This year the PPA unit handled several cases involving children and women, both in the form of violence in the form of abuse or rape and domestic violence. These cases are handled by the PPA Unit, Batanghari Police have been successfully resolved. Meanwhile the other cases are still in the investigation and investigation stage. "All of them involve children and women,".

Separately, the Ministry of Social Affairs, which handles the problems of women, children and neglected people in Batanghari, said that it provides assistance to underage victims. "And we are accompanying victims, both minors and women who are victims of acts of violence," he said. So far, he continued coordinating with the Police PPA Unit. During this time, he continued coordinating with the Police PPA Unit and the Jambi Correctional Center (Bapas) . "Some are handled by the Fathers, and some are handled by social services," violence against women and children.

This case is experienced by many children and adults, and women. This can be in the form of acts of physical, psychological, neglect or sexual violence and Domestic Violence (KDRT). The Head of the Women's Empowerment Division (Kabid) of DP3AP2 Jambi Province said that this figure has increased from the last 5 years and even psychology is still in a record position. "What is clear is that this year it has increased and is the highest in the last 5 years. Continuing, cases of violence against women and children are generally carried out by people closest to them and are often suppressed because of local wisdom, such as being embarrassed to make complaints. "The cases are still ongoing. legal process for children, women.

DISCUSSION

The performance measurement instrument presented by the State Administration Institute (2008:282), the substance of this performance measurement instrument consists of aspects that influence the quality of task implementation, including: 1) Innovation; Innovation can be defined as the process and/or result of developing the utilization/mobilization of knowledge, skills (including technological skills) and experience to create or improve new products (goods and/or services), processes and/or systems, which provide significant value. or significantly (especially economic and social). 2) Cooperation; Teamwork is a form of group work with complementary skills and commitment to achieving previously agreed targets to achieve common goals effectively and efficiently. 3) Speed of work: Speed of work is an indicator that we are smart and competent or professional. 3) Work accuracy; Is accuracy in working in accordance with the main tasks and functions according to existing rules. 4) Service; According to the Big Indonesian Dictionary (KBBI), service is an effort to help prepare or take care of what other people need. Meanwhile, according to Moenir (2010: 26) service is an activity carried out by a person or group of people based on material factors through certain systems, procedures and methods in an effort to fulfill the interests of other people in accordance with their rights.

The factors that cause indiscipline according to Hasibuan (2007:195) are as follows: 1) Goals and abilities; Apart from having to support the goals, the discipline to be enforced must be in accordance with the abilities of the employees, 2) Leadership example; To make the regulations issued in order to enforce discipline more effective, there needs to be an example of a leader. 3) Remuneration; Remuneration (salary and welfare) also influences employee discipline, because remuneration will provide employee satisfaction and love for the organization, 4) Justice; Justice contributes to the realization of employee discipline. The nature of the ego and the nature of humans who always feel they are important and ask to be treated the same as other humans, 5) Attached Supervision; Inherent supervision is the real and most effective action in realizing employee discipline, because this inherent supervision means that superiors must be effective and monitor the behavior, morals, attitudes, work styles and achievements of their subordinates, 6) Legal Sanctions; To enforce discipline, there needs to be firmness for those who want to be disciplinary. 7) Firmness; Don't let known violations go without taking action or allow these violations to drag on without taking firm action.

In 1. Good performance comes from hard work and high discipline. The Jambi Ministry of Health Health Polytechnic discipline is very high with a score of 184.3. Performance at the Jambi Ministry of Health Health Polytechnic is at very high criteria with a score of 181.95. 2. The correlation coefficient is 0.816, meaning that there is a close relationship between the discipline variables and the performance of the Jambi Ministry of Health Health Polytechnic, which is 81.6%. The coefficient of determination (R²) is 0.667. This figure shows that the discipline variable is able to explain the performance variable of the Jambi Ministry of Health Polytechnic employees' performance by 66.7%, whereas 33.3% is caused by other variables not examined in this research. 3. Based on the results of data processing and the results of simple linear regression calculations, the results obtained are $t_{count} 9.165 > t_{table} 2.01954$. This means that discipline has a significant effect on employee performance at the Jambi Ministry of Health Health Polytechnic.

Data recorded from the last 5 years, starting from 2019=2023, is what was reported to P2TP2TP Jambi Province. "In essence, as the leading sector of the DP3AP2 Province, we continue to strive to provide protection for women and children who experience violence, by collaborating between related agencies, community organizations and the police," adding, this year also the UPTD PPA Gubernatorial Regulation as a change to the P2TP2A clature nomenclature has been formed, in efforts to provide maximum service to cases of women and children. Going forward in the following year, UPTD PPA will be an integrated service unit under DP3AP2 of Jambi province, especially in Batanghari Regency.

The Batanghari district government is promoting an anti-domestic violence (KDRT) cadre program to reduce cases affecting mothers and children in the area. We start the anti-domestic violence program at the village level first, where in each village there are ten cadres consisting of religious leaders, traditional leaders and community leaders, said the head of the maternal and child protection division of the family planning and women's empowerment agency, Batanghari district. explained that since 2018 - 2023 January the district government has started implementing anti-domestic violence programs and now efforts for these activities must be increased.

In this program, the main task and function of these cadres in their villages is to provide outreach on the impact of domestic violence, as a forum for handling cases that can still be mediated and to assist in resolving cases if they have entered the legal arena. Currently these cadres are being strengthened by the issuance of a decree by the village head and incentives provided through village funds. Apart from that, there are also community-based integrated child protection activists. Even though these cadres have been defeated since 2017-2023, to date not all villages in Batanghari district have domestic violence cadres. Apart from that, since these cadres were promoted, the family planning and women's empowerment agency has not received reports of activities from these cadres.

Meanwhile, in the first quarter of 2023, the Batanghari district family planning and women's empowerment agency recorded several cases of violence experienced by mothers and children. Some cases were experienced by children and other cases were experienced by housewives. The number of cases of violence against mothers and children this year has indeed increased, so now there are only a few cases and in the future it is hoped that these cases can continue to be suppressed and increase in number. Overall, violence against women and children.

Cases of violence against women and children still occur in the Batanghari area. From January to September 2023 there were violent sexual crimes, abuse and domestic violence (KDRT). From the report from the Department of Population Control, Family Planning, Women's Empowerment and Child Protection (DPPKBP3A), although every time there are cases of violence against women and children, the number is increasing compared to the previous year. Head of the Women and Children Protection Division compared to last year, violence against children was violence against women. "The number of acts of violence against women and children has decreased, he explained. Based on regional mapping, the most cases of violence occurred in Muarabulian District. Muara Tembesi, Maro Sebo Ulu, Bajubang, Batin XXIV and Pemayung Districts. The government will provide assistance to victims of violence. Apart from that, the Batanghari Police also conducted mediation with the victim and the victim's family. "The government's hope is that the level of violence against women and children in Batanghari will decrease so that cases of violence will become small, if necessary there will be no more.

According to the Head of the Batanghari Police PPA Unit, the duties and responsibilities of children in Batanghari Regency are as follows; 1) Improve complaint and assistance service facilities. 2) Organize a referral system for cases requiring medical treatment, legal assistance, repatriation and social reintegration. 3) Increase cooperation between the Government, NGOs that care for women and children, the private sector and society in the fields of education, health, economics and decision making in order to realize gender equality and justice. 4) Strengthen information networks and socialization.

Based on regional mapping, the government will provide assistance to victims of violence. Apart from that, the Batanghari Police also conducted mediation with the victim and the victim's family. "The government's hope is that the level of violence against women and children in Batanghari will decrease so that cases of violence become small, if necessary there will be no more. Cases of violence against women and children still occur in the Batanghari area. From January to September 2023, cases of sexual violence, abuse and domestic violence (KDRT) have increased.

From the report from the Department of Population Control, Family Planning, Women's Empowerment and Child Protection (DPPKBP3A), although every time there are cases of violence against women and children, the number has decreased compared to 10 cases in the previous year. Head of the Women and Children Protection Division, Najmi Ulyati, said that in the first semester of 2019, there were 9 cases of violence against children and 1 case of violence against women. Compared to last year, there were 33 cases of violence against children and 15 cases of violence against women. "The number of acts of violence against women and children has decreased, namely 10 cases.

The cases of violence are divided into 4 types, namely physical violence, psychological violence, sexual violence and neglect. The highest case is sexual acts. Seeing such conditions, to increase protection and security for women and children in Jambi Province, especially in Batanghari district, it is necessary to form a Regional Regulation that regulates the Protection of Women and Children. In line with this, the Ministry of PPPA supports the Draft Regional Regulation on PPPA. Cases of violence are divided into 4 types, namely physical violence, psychological violence, sexual violence and neglect. The highest case is sexual acts. Victims of violence in Jambi Province, especially in Batanghari Regency, victims of violence against women and children should report to the PPA Unit and the PPA Unit will provide protection and assistance in resolving problems for victims without charge.

In resolving the problem of violence against children and women, maximum service will be provided. If they take legal action, they will be accompanied until the legal process is completed, according to Aipda Mustafa Kamal as Head of the Batanghari Police PPA unit. Then the victims of violence will also be taken to a psychologist and will be examined. his health in order to restore his mental and physical health. Victims of violence should not remain silent, they must have the courage to speak out to obtain justice. The active role of victims has an impact on the recurrence of cases of violence.

The Batanghari Police together with the Batanghari PPKBP3A Service will always provide assistance to victims of violence and will mediate with the victim and the victim's family. said that the cause of domestic violence was due to various factors, it could be economic problems which triggered emotions and violence starting with arguments. "Another factor is jealousy towards partners. We hope that cases of violence against women and children in Batanghari Regency will be minimized to a small number if necessary.

CONCLUSION

In resolving the problem of violence against children and women, maximum service will be provided. If they take legal action, they will be accompanied until the legal process is completed, according to Aipda Mustafa Kamal as Head of the Batanghari Police PPA unit. Then the victims of violence will also be taken to a physiologist and their health will be checked in order to restore their mental and physical health. Victims of violence should not remain silent, they must have the courage to speak out to obtain justice. The active role of victims has an impact on the recurrence of cases of violence. For the Batanghari Police PPA Unit to make more efforts to increase protection for victims of domestic violence in resolving cases of violence by submitting a request for a protection order to the court for the victim because even though the PPA Unit for the police is more alert, responsive in handling cases of women and children, it is for handling women's cases. and children through education and training. For women who are victims of domestic violence, they must immediately report the violence they experience so that the police can enforce the law against the perpetrators while immediately providing protection to the victims.
